Yale: Ndb76 I3 892 v.3.

[This source is a brief survey of the outlines of the land tenure and the land revenue administration of Coorg as they existed in the late 19th century. Since most of the material exists in other sources, this has not been processed for the Coorg file.]

Etter, Carl. Ainu Folklore: Traditions and Culture of the Vanishing Aborigines of Japan. Chicago: Wilcox & Follett Co., 1949.

Pp. xxi; 234; bibliography; index.

Yale: Nkd71 A2 949e.

/The author was a teacher before World War II in Hokkaido Imperial University and became interested in the Ainu as a result of contacts he made there. He made several trips to the Ainu and collected a good deal of information. However, this information is immersed in general comparisons with the Bible and other religious material, which vitiates the materials. The book contains information on magic, creation story, etc./

[In spite of the title, this source is not an ethnological study, but a comparison of various physical measurements of different groups of Coorgs and Yeruvas. Therefore, it has not been processed for the Coorg file.]

Moegling, H. Coorg Memoirs; an Account of Coorg, and of the Coorg Mission. Bangalore: Printed at the Wesleyan Mission Press, 1855.

Pp. v, 222

Newberry Library, Chicago: Eames G 6919.58

/This volume was written by a missionary who was in the Coorg area between 1850 and 1855. It contains a history of Coorg, a description of Coorg customs, and a history of the Coorg mission. This material is also contained in other works by Moegling and in other sources processed for the Coorg file. -- Analyst/

Richter, Rev. G. Ethnographical Compendium on the Castes and Tribes Found in the Province of Coorg, With a Short Description of Those Peculiar to Coorg. Bangalore: Printed at the Morning Star Press, 1887.

Pp. 2, 52

University of Michigan: GN 635.I4 R54

/This source contains a brief description of all the tribes and castes of Coorg, based on J. C. Nesfield's general caste classification. The material on each group is sketchy and most has been covered in other sources in the Coorg file. Therefore, this source has not been processed for the AW5 Coorg file. -- Analyst/
